

The Funeral Process

This is a brief outline of the process after a person dies.

The funeral process can happen quite quickly, so I tell families there is no need to rush things, there is no panic. Take your time and do the things that you want to do for the person.

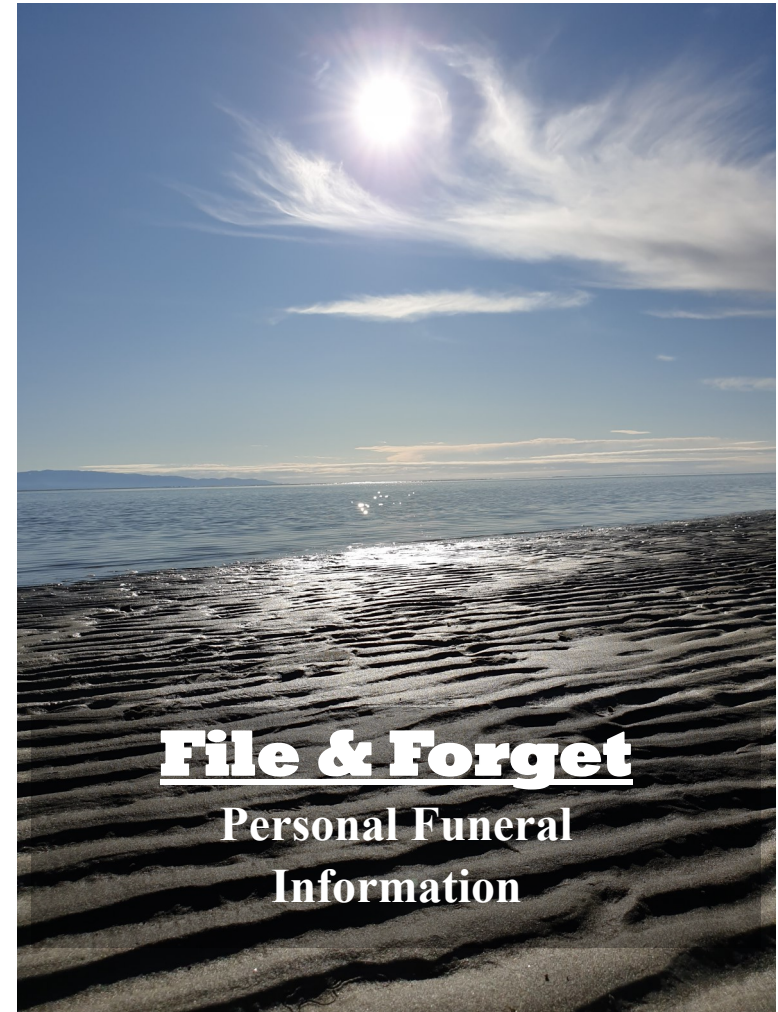

Simple Direct Funerals

People don't often think about death and funerals until they have to. And there tends to be a lot of unknowns.

This booklet is a simple tool that stores most of the relevant information needed.

When I talk to people about funerals I tend to keep things simple, which they seem to appreciate. In a short meeting they usually go away with a clear understanding of what they want - or at least what they need to know.

This booklet is titled "File and Forget" because the intention is that you write down all the information that is needed and then you forget about it and get on with living.

Funerals do not need to be scary things and you, as a family or individual, have a huge say in what you want to happen.

For us the most important thing is helping people say goodbye in a way that is meaningful to them.
